MR. J. A. CHETTLE DEAD

WAS FOR TWENTY YEARS TRAIN-MAN ON THE M. K. & T. RAILROAD.

LIVED HERE ALL OF THAT TIME

Died at 2:15 O'clock Sunday Morning—Will Be Buried From Former Home at 2:30 O'clock Tuesday Afternoon.

Joseph A. Chettle, for twenty years a brakeman on the M. K. & T. railway, died of yellow jaundice and typhoid fever at the company hospital in this city at 2:15 o'clock Sunday morning, aged 58 years.

Funeral services will be conducted by Rev. Clarke Baker, pastor of the Epworth M. E. church, at deceased's former home, 923 East Third street, at 2:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, and interment will be in the city cemetery.

Pallbearers will be selected from Prairie Queen lodge No. 18, B. of R. T. K. of P. lodge No. 27 and Neapolis lodge No. 153, I. O. O. F., of which Mr. Chettle was a member, while the services will be held under the auspices of the last named organization.

Two weeks ago last Wednesday Mr. Chettle was taken ill and was confined to his bed. The physicians pronounced his case yellow jaundice, and later symptoms of typhoid fever developed.

About a week ago Mr. Chettle was removed to the company hospital, but in spite of the best of attention, the patient grew gradually worse, and Saturday night he had a sinking spell and passed peacefully away at the hour stated.

Deceased was born in England on Dec. 26, 1848. At the age of 16 he came to this country and in 1887 he removed to Missouri, settling in Sedalia.

He immediately entered the employ of the M. K. & T. as brakeman and has remained as such since. Recently he has been running with Conductor Ike Turner on passenger trains. During his twenty years of railroad life he made hundreds of friends both here and at points along the Katy's line, and many indeed will read with sorrow of his demise.

Besides his mother and sister in England, deceased leaves a wife and three children, Charles E. Chettle, of St. Louis; Miss Libbie E. Chettle, of Denver, Col., and Mrs. A. P. Lyons, of St. Louis, also a brother, Robert Chettle, of Midway, Pa.

THERE MAY BE TROUBLE

Because of Arrests When Immunity Was Promised.

Charles Evans, Harry Starkey and John Dille, three boys, who were arrested here last week, charged with stealing fishing paraphernalia from a farmer near this city, and whose cases were later dismissed by Judge Rickman because he had no jurisdiction, were rearrested at Dresden, where the crime was committed, Saturday, and will be tried there next Saturday.

Attorneys interested in the case say they intend to make trouble for certain officers, as the goods were returned with the understanding that no arrests would be made.

THEN HE SPOKE AT WEBB CITY, MO

Third Speech of the Day Was Before a Large Crowd at Carthage—He Departs This Evening for Springfield, Mo.

Joplin, Mo., Aug. 26.—Secretary Taft is booked to deliver three speeches in Joplin and vicinity today. The secretary reached Joplin last night, after an all-Sunday ride.

Although he arrived here late, he was greeted by 1,500 persons. Crowds also cheered him at Claremore and Tulsa, I. T., en route. He secured a good night's rest and started the day greatly refreshed.

He delivered his first speech at Joplin this morning, addressing a throng and talking principally on trusts and rate legislation.

The city is crowded with visitors from Missouri and Kansas towns. Later the secretary was escorted to Webb City, where, after luncheon, he delivered his second speech.

Along the line between the two cities he was cheered by good sized crowds, made up in part of zinc miners.

Early in the afternoon he started for Carthage, where he made a third speech, and will return to Joplin late in the day, departing for Springfield tonight.

AN AGED LADY DEAD

Had Lived in Benton County for Seventy Years.

Mrs. M. L. Clark, one of the oldest residents of Warsaw and a most estimable Christian woman, died there Friday, August 23rd, at the age of 84 years.

She came to Benton county seventy years ago, from Gettysburg, Pa., and had lived in and near Warsaw since that time.

Four children survive her, viz.: John B. Clark, of Independence; James A., of Warsaw; R. A., of New Franklin, and Mrs. George Drake of Warsaw.

The funeral was held at Warsaw Sunday forenoon and was attended by Mrs. Mattie Clark, of West Fourth street, and her son, Charlie, who returned home Sunday afternoon.

He is survived by a widow and three children.

HAD GOOD GAME OF BALL

CLINTON AND CONCORDIA DID AT LIBERTY PARK SUNDAY AFTERNOON.

THE RECEIPTS WERE OVER $300

About 1,100 Persons Present—Henry County Boys Defeated Lafayette County by a Score of Six to Four.

Eleven hundred people witnessed the ball game for a purse of $100 and the lion's share of the gate receipts between the clubs of Clinton and Concordia at Liberty park, in this city Sunday afternoon, the former club winning by a score of 6 to 4.

It reminded the local fans of old times, when Sedalia had professional ball, and the contest was greatly enjoyed.

There was considerable coin wagered on the result, as there were over 100 Clintonites present to root for their team, while more than that number were here from Concordia, pulling for their townsmen.

Brockman and Meyer were in the points for Concordia, and Woody and Armstrong for Clinton. Brockman is the pitcher who was given a trial with Sedalia several years ago, when Dan A. Falls was manager of the team.

"Brock" was sent in against Fort Scott, the weakest team in the league, and he was hammered all over the diamond. He was at once released, despite his excuse that he had "a sore arm."

In the same series Fort Scott gave Brockman a trial, when Sedalia ousted him out of the box, and he retired from professional ball.

In yesterday's game Brockman pitched good ball, but his teammates were to the bad at critical stages, hence their defeat.

Woody, a left-handed artist, dished out the twisters for Clinton, and proved himself an artist. Especially was he there in watching first base, and no fewer than five Concordians were thrown out by being caught napping at the initial sack. Woody's work in this one respect likely cost the Concordia team the game.

Yesterday's victory is the third for Clinton over Concordia this season, the first game by a score of 4 to 3, the second 2 to 0 and yesterday 6 to 4. In fact, Clinton has won 20 out of 21 games played this year, and arrangements are now being made for a game with the champions of the Kansas City city league, to be played in Sedalia on Sunday, September 8.

The receipts of yesterday's game were a little in excess of $300. Henry V. Leist did the umpiring, and did it well, too, each team being perfectly satisfied. The score by innings follows:

	R.	H.	E.
Concordia	0	0	0

CROOK BADLY WANTED

Walter Harrington, Who Attempted Ottoville Job.

Secret service men of the Missouri Pacific state that Walter Harrington, who was arrested at Ottoville Friday night for the shrewdest swindle ever heard of by the detective department of the "Old Reliable," is wanted at various places throughout the country for executing and being an accomplice in some of the most daring swindles ever heard of.

Not alone the Pacific express company, but the Wells-Fargo people and other express companies are after Harrington, and it is probable that numerous other charges will be placed against the criminal, who disappeared as soon as he was released on a $2,500 bond at Booneville Saturday, as chronicled in detail in the Democrat-Sentinel.

LISBON "STUDIO" RAID

BARES ORGIES OUTRIVALING HORRORS OF FAMOUS THAW TRIAL.

DEGENERATES HOLD MOCK TRIALS

Women Captives Condemned to Loathsome Penalties—Mob Attacks Police Who Arrest Alleged Libertines.

Lisbon, Aug. 26.—All reports of orgies of degenerates which have shocked the world in the last decade have paled into insignificance beside the scandal which has developed here through the raid made by the police on a "studio" in the outskirts of the city and the arrest of a half dozen alleged young libertines, members of some of Portugal's most noted families. The whole country is fairly agitated over the revelations of the raid.

"A haunt of Caligula," is the way the police describe the pleasure resort. The scenes enacted there, it is claimed, would shame the rage of Nero.

Young women, enticed to the place by the dissolute youths, were kept virtual prisoners. Cruelties almost indescribable are said to have been practiced on these helpless victims.

At times mock courts would be instituted, the women would be arraigned, accused of horrible crimes and sentenced to degrading penalties. The most revolting practices of the "Neroians" are only hinted at by the police in their disclosures.

The greatest indignation is felt against the young men by the people generally. When the raid was made hundreds of persons gathered about the studio and scores of police were required to keep the mob from lynching them.

TWENTY-ONE PEOPLE HURT

By Derailment of a Southern Train in Virginia.

Charlottesville, Va., Aug. 26.—Twenty-one persons were injured, none seriously by the derailment of a northbound Southern railway train at Redhill, nine miles south of here, early today.

The entire train except the engine turned over. The cause was a broken rail.

The train fortunately was running at a moderate speed. The injured were taken by special train to Washington.

Death Came Suddenly.

Mrs. A. P. Morey has just been advised of the sudden death at Albany, N. Y., of Jerome C. Trask, a prominent citizen of Cleveland, O., whose daughter, Miss Ethel, visited Miss Jennie Morey last winter, and who made many warm friends during her sojourn. Mr. Trask had gone east for a vacation, when he was taken ill with appendicitis, an operation failing to save his life.

IS CHARGED WITH FRAUD

W. T. SALSMAN, WHO CLAIMS HIS HOME IS AT PITTSBURG, KANSAS.

HE SWINDLED THE ANTLERS HOTEL

Got $5 on a Bogus Check, Borrowed $1 by Claiming Baggage That Belonged to Another and Arrest Followed.

W. T. Salsman, giving Pittsburg, Kan., as his home, and a shrewd confidence man who has been in the local courts before, was arrested last night by Constable Love, charged with obtaining money falsely of the proprietors of the Antlers hotel. He will be tried in Judge Clark's court. W. D. O'Bannon is his attorney.

Salsman came here last week and put up at the Antlers. Saturday afternoon he presented a check for $5 on the First State bank at Pittsburg. The check was no good, which the proprietors of the hostelry learned later.

Sunday afternoon Salsman entered the hotel lobby again, and, approaching the desk, he espied a suit case behind the counter. Calling the clerk, Lee Bradley, Salsman said: "There's my grip; lay it to one side. I'll be after it later."

The clerk did as requested and a few moments later Salsman returned and borrowed $1 from the clerk. He then disappeared and was not seen again until arrested.

After the baseball game at Liberty park yesterday one of the ball players entered the hotel and called for his grip. The clerk objected to giving it to him, as he had been impressed with the talk that the grip belonged to Salsman.

The ball player identified the articles in the grip and then the attempted theft was discovered.

WERE THEY MARRIED HERE?

Returned to Warrensburg, But "Mum" Was the Word.

As chronicled in Sunday's Democrat-Sentinel, a marriage license was issued here at 5 o'clock Saturday afternoon to Tahkee O. Davenport and Miss Mamie Marr, both of Warrensburg.

The prospective bridegroom declined to be interviewed while here, but it is believed that he and Miss Marr were married by some one in Sedalia, after which they returned to the Quarry City Sunday morning, although there has as yet been no return on the marriage license.

Mr. Davenport was seen in Warrensburg by a Star reporter, but he positively refused to state whether or not he was married, saying that it was nobody's business.

Mr. Davenport is a rural route carrier out of Warrensburg, and Miss Marr, now most likely Mrs. Davenport, is the daughter of a well-to-do farmer who lives on the route that Mr. Davenport travels daily.

DEATH OF J. M. WILLIAMS

Funeral to Be at Clifton City Tuesday Afternoon.

J. M. Williams, a prosperous farmer, residing three miles southeast of town, whose critical condition was chronicled in Sunday's Democrat-Sentinel, died of peritonitis at apartments in this city at 8:30 o'clock last night, aged about 35 years.

Last Thursday the patient was operated upon by local physicians, but his case had gone too far and the operation was of no avail.

Deceased leaves a wife and one son, Virgil, residing at home, also several brothers, one living at Kansas City and two near the home. The funeral services will be held at Clifton City at 1:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

A STRIKE IN KANSAS CITY

It Is All Because One Firm Conducts an Open Shop.

Skating Rink Opened.

The Liberty park skating rink was opened Sunday night for the fall and winter season by Charlie Ogle, with a large attendance of young men and women. Judging from the number present the opening night, roller skating will be fully as popular this season as it was last season, when "society" went daffy over it, as one of the social leaders put it.

Was It Mr. Turley's Horse?

A horse answering the description of D. W. Turley's $50 horse, which was discovered missing from Mr. Turley's stable Friday morning, died from colic in Northwest Sedalia, in Barrett's addition to the city, late Saturday, and was hauled away before Mr. Turley could say whether the animal belonged to him or someone else.

HE WILL CLAIM A BRIDE

YOUNG MAN OF TIFFIN, OHIO, IS TO BE WED AT JOPLIN WEDNESDAY.

PRETTY ROMANCE OF TWO STATES

The Prospective Bride Was a Former Waitress and Was Made Rich By Late Senator Connor's Secret Investment.

Tiffin, O., Aug. 26.—Alexander McCartan, a young Tiffin grocer, is now journeying toward Joplin, Mo., at which place, Wednesday morning, he will wed Miss Annie Donahue, one of the wealthiest young girls of that city.

The marriage will be the culmination of a pretty romance which was woven about the life of the late Senator Connor, the millionaire banker and mine owner of Joplin, Mo., who died last April and was buried in this city, his boyhood home.

Several years ago Annie Donahue was a poor but pretty Irish girl employed as a waitress in one of the large Joplin hotels. One day her beauty and gentle manner attracted the notice of Connor, at whose table she was serving. He became interested in the girl and found that she had ideals, hopes and aspirations strangely at variance with her humble position.

He resolved to help the girl. Following his usual method of bestowing benefactions, he invested in certain undeveloped mining properties in her name and without her knowledge. The land under his manipulation soon soared to fabulous value and became one of the best paying properties in the zinc district.

One day he casually informed the girl that she no longer would have to work. Thinking that she was about to be discharged for some fancied cause, she burst into tears and pleaded to be permitted to remain that she might earn an honest living.

She soon dried her tears after being informed of the true situation, and after she disposed of her holdings she became the mistress of a fortune greater than that of any seen in her wildest dreams.

Miss Donahue repaid her benefactor with all the gratitude and devotion of her young Irish heart. When he became ill she ministered to his needs and journeyed with him to Colorado, where she was his constant nurse. When he died she accompanied the body to Tiffin, and it was here that she met young McCartan.

The attachment was mutual and it was not long until they were engaged. The secret was well kept, however, and the announcement of the approaching wedding came as a great surprise, even to his most intimate friends.

POPE TO ISSUE NEW LAW

THE PRESS REFERS TO AS "SENATIONAL, AND REVOLUTIONARY" AS WELL.

MARRIAGE WITHOUT THE CLERGY

May Be Contracted in the Presence of Two Witnesses Under Certain Circumstances, Says a Rome Dispatch.

Rome, Aug. 26.—Within a few days an extraordinarily sensational and revolutionary law, interesting all the Catholic clergymen and laymen in the United States, and affecting all Catholics in America, will be promulgated by the Vatican authorities.

Until now the church law has been that American Catholics can contract marriages validly, although illicitly, by going before a justice, or even before a Protestant minister, when duly licensed by the civil authorities, but under the new law all these marriages will be regarded as null and void among Catholics.

The new law, which is contained in a decree of the congregation of the council, drafted by the special request of his holiness Pope Pius X., cradles that from next Easter no marriages among Catholics shall be valid unless they are contracted before a duly authorized priest in the presence of two witnesses.

There will be only two exceptions to this law, which will be universal for all countries of the globe. The first is that when there is imminent danger of death and no duly authorized priest is obtainable in the district a man and woman may contract a marriage that will be valid merely by announcing their consent or intentions in the presence of two witnesses. This latter is the most important change made in the laws of the Catholic church, which have not been radically altered in over three centuries. The second exception is regarded as the very first indication of several sweeping changes to be introduced in the new code of Pius X., which has engaged the labors of the most learned body of ecclesiastical authorities in the Catholic church for the past four years, and which eventually will cover the entire field of church legislation.

MR. J. H. McMANIGAL DEAD

Once Traveled Out of Sedalia for the Cassidy Liquor Co.

Information was received here today of the death of J. H. McManigal, a former Sedalian, at his home at Trinidad, Colo., last Saturday. The news came to Mrs. P. F. Sullivan, wife of a Missouri Pacific conductor.

Mr. McManigal was about 42 years old and left Sedalia several years ago for Trinidad, where he was engaged in the furniture business. He recently visited at Warrensburg, Mo., his old home, for his health, but left there last week to return to the Centennial state. He leaves a wife and three children residing in the Quarry City.

The funeral services will be held at the Catholic church at Warrensburg as soon as the remains arrive, which time is not definitely known. Mr. McManigal, when he lived here, traveled for the E. G. Cassidy Liquor Co., and is well known by many Sedalians.

The sheriff came to Omaha Sunday night to get the prisoner, who was in jail here, and took him to Bancroft on the train which arrived at Bancroft at 5 o'clock this morning.

Twenty men took Higgins from the sheriff, hauled him on a dory to a point near by and hanged him to a tree. Higgins' crime was wanton.

NOW LET THE ADVERTISERS GET BUSY.

As a means of influencing adverisers, an ounce of fact is worth a pound of epigram. If conditions country do not, in cautions business
the nation's not only to be changed by glittering generalities. But vidence of continued prosperity all ver the land is a powerful argument for judicious advertising, and just now "judicious" spells "liberal."
In making an exhaustive and careful compilation of crop reports,
Lord & Thomas, of Chicago, have
one advertisers and publishers alike
good turn, says the Fourth Estate.
No wintry scene set the calamity owlers roaring. They said the ops were ruined, and before their ordered vision floated the specter hard times.
It is clear from the Lord & Thom-
reports that with a few excepions the crops are about as good usual. No attempt is made to nt a brighter picture than the ts warrant. In some places the n crop is not as good as it was t year. In others, the fruit es are less heavily laden than
ual. But on the whole the outlook the fall is good. No end of the of prosperity is in sight. Adverisers never had better reason to ex-ect large returns from their apropriations.

Rumors of war are spread from
ne to time, but they die away ckly, like a child's voice in a
de. The political situation worries body, apparently, but the politiians. Sensational fluctuations in the lock market have been followed by o widespread effect. The state of e labor market is healthy, building operations on a large scale are proected and if the work is slow sometimes it is because employers can ot even by the offer of high wages,
et all the help they want. Times re good and there is no cloud in he sky big enough or black enough

THE PRINTING PRESS.

The census department has an interesting report of the growth of the rinting press.

In 1810, nearly a century ago, there were 359 newspapers in the United States. In 1905 there were 26,422 printing and publishing houses in the country. These represented $385, 968,604 of invested capital, and turned out products valued at $496,061, 357. The growth for the five years since 1900 doubled the ten years previous.

The value of the output of printing and publishing plants entitles
the printing business to rank with the ten leading industries of the country. There is one establishment for each 2976 persons. The ten industries whose products in 1905 exceeded $320,000,000 in value were

THE CANAL WORK.

The engineers in charge of the digging of the Panama canal find that they can advantageously spend eight million dollars more than they had estimated when the yearly appropriation was made.

It is alleged that the work of excavation has gone forward with unexpected rapidity, and that the Cu-lebra cutting will be done before the Gatun dam and locks can be built.
If it shall turn out that the shortage in cash is actually caused, by the speed of construction there will be reason for congratulation; but the hint of delay at Gatun is not reassuring.

Springfield, Mo., Aug. 26.—William Horn, of Ash Grove, was found guilty
in the criminal court here Saturday
of attempting to kill his wife several weeks ago, and was given a sentence
of sixteen years in the penitentiary.
Horn and his wife had been separ-

went into the house where his wife
was staying, but was refused admis-

the door and then smashed it in.
Mrs. Horn and her baby were com-

LOST A VALUABLE DIAMOND

City Father of Pittsburg Is Accused of Robbery.

Pittsburg, Pa., Aug. 26.—Councill-
man Bernard Kenna was arrested Saturday, charged with purloining a diamond ring, valued at $125, from Helen Miller, of 231 Second avenue.

Richard Wiseman, a well-known
man about town, also was arrested,
charged with being with the councilman when the ring was stolen. They were released on $1,000 bail each pending a hearing before Magistrate
Brady this week.

The woman says that Kenna and Wiseman were with her when she went to sleep on a couch in her room,
and that her ring disappeared from her hand. She makes the direct charge that Kenna took it.

Kenna has been a prominent figure in politics for many years, and the charge caused a sensation. Both he and Wiseman denied knowledge of the theft of the ring.

A CAPTIVE FOUR YEARS

THE EXPERIENCE OF A LAD OF SIX SUMMERS WHO WAS KIDNAPED.

MADE HIS ESCAPE FROM GYPSIES

Walter Culper, the "Charley Ross"
of South Chicago, returned to His Greatly Astounded Relatives.

Chicago, Aug. 26.—Captive of a roving band of gypsies for four years,
Walter Culper, the 10-year-old "Charlie Ross" of South Chicago, escaped at Roby, Ind., and has found his own people. He walked in before his grandmother, Mrs. Betcher, 10445 Ewing avenue.

"Hello, grandma," don't you know me? I'm little Walter," he said. The good woman was beside herself with astonishment. When she recovered
she admitted that she did not recognize in the ragged, barefooted lad the pretty, well-dressed little fellow of 6 years, who had been stolen from home and given up forever.

After a session in the bathtub,
however, she saw that the newcomer was her long lost grandson. Then she smothered him with kisses and wept for joy. The boy escaped from the gypsies two days ago. He managed to reach South Chicago. There he prosecuted a lonely search until
he found his grandparent.

The mother of the boy is on her way from her present home at South Dend, Ind., to South Chicago, to fold
her child to her breast again.

Frank Culper, the father, died during the absence of the boy, the loss of whom is said to have had much to do with his death. Mrs. Culper married again and is now Mrs. J. H. Cullen.

The boy tells a remarkable story
of his wanderings and hardships during captivity. He was so young when he was kidnaped that he had almost forgotten that he ever had a home.

It was when he heard the gypsies
speak of South Chicago that he remembered and planned to run away
from his captors at the first opportunity. The boy said that he had roamed
all over the country with the gypsy band, camping in many states. At first he thought it was great fun. But soon his captors worked him hard
and beat him when he proved too frail for the task to which he was set.

Authorities at Roby were notified
of the boy's return, and a search for the gypsies disclosed the fact that they had fled as soon as the absence of the boy was discovered.

Ruse Didn't Work.

A bailiff, having long tried in vain
to arrest a Quaker, at last resolved to adopt the disguise of a Quaker himself, and so get access to the interior of the house. He knocked accordingly at the door, inquiring if Friend Aminadab was at home and if he could see him. The housekeeper said, "Walk in, friend, and he shall see thee." The bailiff, delighted to have got this success, was directed to wait; but after waiting an hour he became impatient,
rang the bell, and said to the servant,
"Thou promised me I should see Friend Aminadab." "No, friend," answered she; "I promised he should see thee. He hath seen thee, but he doth not like thee."—Tit-Bits.

PEMBERTON FOR CONGRESS

Author of "Five-Mile" Law Announces Candidacy.

Columbia, Mo., Aug. 26.—Morton H. Pemberton has announced himself as a candidate for the democratic nomination for congress in this the Eighth district.

Mr. Pemberton represented Boone county in the last general assembly. He is the father of the so-called Pemberton "five-mile" law, which passed at the extra session. This law prohibits the issuance of a dramsshop license for a saloon within five miles of any state educational institution having an enrollment of 1,500 students. This law is so worded that the university is the only school coming under the law.

Boone county will likely have another candidate for this office in William Hirth, editor of the Columbia Statesman. Mr. Hirth belongs to the anti-Folk wing of the party. He vigorously opposed the Pemberton bill when it was up for passage by the senate. He has lived in the district about three years.

Frank G. Harris, prosecuting attorney of this county, has definitely decided that he will not enter this race. Dorsey W. Shackelford, of Jefferson City, is a candidate for re-election.

"We never repent of eating too little," was one of the ten rules of life of Thomas Jefferson, president of the United States, and the rule applies to every one without exception during this hot weather because it is hard for food, even in small quantities, to be digested when the blood is at high temperature. At this season we should eat sparingly and properly. We should also help the stomach as much as possible by the use of a little Kodol for Indigestion and Dyspepsia, which will rest the stomach by digesting the food itself. Sold by Arlington Pharmacy.

'Twas Mine of Mystery

MR. FREDERICK W. LOCKRIDGE TELLS OF THRILLING EXPERIENCE.

THE DOOR WAS SECURELY GUARDED

Bribed the Soldiers to Unlock the Door—Had No End of Trouble Before He Got Out Into the Open Once More.

The Sabetha, Kans., Herald is responsible for the following thrilling story:

Frederick W. Lockridge, of St. Louis, who is in Sabetha visiting his mother, tells of a thrilling experience he had in a Mexican silver mine which no white man had entered other than officers of the mining company for twenty years or more. He had heard his father and others tell of the seduction and riches of the Cato mine in the wonderfully wealthy mining district adjacent to Guanajuato, Mexico. During his recent visit of a month and a half in Mexico Mr. Lockridge determined to see the inside of this mine in which no man other than an employee had been permitted for so many years.

The Cato mine is one of the richest and oldest silver mines in the world, and is one for which the vicinity of Guanajuato has been famous for centuries. It had been worked continuously for four hundred years by the Aztecs. It passed directly from the hands of the Aztecs into an English syndicate about thirty years ago. The English policy was to permit no one in the mine or in the vicinity of the mine other than actual employees. The ambition of sightseers had long since been quelled by rebuffs, physical and mental, when attempts had been made to violate this privacy. Many tales had been spread by the natives of its wondrous wealth and marvelous workings.

When Mr. Lockridge reached Guanajuato he asked no questions of the authorities, but instituted a search at once for a guide to direct him to this mountain of wealth. Many refused, but finally a greaser was found who was tempted by the financial inducement held out by the venturesome tourist.

When the guide and Mr. Lockridge were approaching the foot of the mountain they were stopped by a policeman who asked their destination and business. The guide explained and Mr. Lockridge seized an opening in the ensuing conversation to assist the interest of the policeman by similar tactics used in securing the guide. The policeman offered his escort.

They climbed the mountain by a path unfrequented. Not far up they found an immense wooden door about eighteen feet high and six or more feet wide, opening directly into the mountainside. In front of this door stood a Mexican guide with a big carbine in his hand. Considerable parleying with the guide on the part of the policeman resulted in his drawing forth a wooden key about a foot long, unlocking the door, sliding the bolts back and throwing it open for the tourist to enter. He handed him a torch, and Mr. Lockridge entered alone, both his guide and the policeman remaining outside with the mine guard.

Mr. Lockridge entered a gallery, jinky black except for the tiny ray made by his 12-inch torch. Beneath his feet was a stairway of stone steps leading down into the bowels of the

Heart Strength

Heart Strength, or Heart Weakness, means Nerve Strength, or Nerve Weakness—nothing more. Positively, not one weak heart in a hundred is, in fact, actually diseased. It is almost always a hidden tiny little nerve that really is all at fault. This obscure nerve—the Cardiac, or Heart Nerve—simply needs, and must have, more power, more strength. Without that the heart must continue to fail, and the stomach and kidneys also have these same controlling nerves.

This clearly explains why, as a medicine, Dr. Shoop's Restorative has in the past done so much for weak and ailing hearts. Dr. Shoop first sought the cause of all this painful, palpitating, suffocating heart distress. Dr. Shoop's Restorative—this weak and wasting nerve center—helps, strengthens; it offers real, genuine heart help. If you would have strong hearts, strong digestion, strengthen these nerves—re-establish them as needed, with earth. He descended these stairs about fifty feet, when he came upon a landing where the stairs branched off in another direction. After getting about half way down this flight of stairs without a sign of life, in this gloomy tomb, his blood was fairly frozen by hearing the immense door behind him slam, the key turned in the lock and the bolts shot.

After a few moments of terrified indecision he resolved it would be better not to go back at once, as the Mexicans, who respect Americans generally for their fearlessness, despise one who shows the white feather, and his return at once would probably have availed him nothing. Anyway he was there and he would see what he could for a while.

He continued down the flight of stairs, and again there was a landing and a turn. This went on and on as he went down. At each landing there was a drift where the ancient had apparently searched for the precious mineral. A dozen of these flights were passed, and to his horror Mr. Lockridge noticed for the first time that the steps were covered with dust as if they had not been used for years. The steps were hewn from solid granite; their edges were rounded by the travel of many feet, many were indented deeply toward the back by feet descending. But these steps had not been used for years.

Overhead hung the crude, silent powerless apparatus used for centuries by the Aztecs to mine their silver. Not even a friendly bat or mouse disturbed the ghastly quiet of the place.

Mr. Lockridge looked at his watch; it was 1 o'clock. For three-quarters of an hour he had been steadily descending these flights of steps, first in one direction, then another, but not a sound could he hear, not a breath indicating that the mine had been used for a hundred years.

But he dared not go back and ask to be released, so he decided to risk it a little further, and the descent to the earth's center, as he believed, continued. Finally he came to a flight of steps, where the water dripped and oozed from the ceiling, the steps were slimy and slippery. His courage ebbed. He turned to go back. As he did so he gave a twist to his right ankle straining it severely. The pain caused him to lose his balance and he slipped down the flight of stairs. In his pain he found it impossible to climb, so he continued to stumble and slide down flight after flight. Suddenly as he rounded a corner he came on a level space, lighted and containing a complete chapel. Mexicans clothed only in a breech cloth and sandals were going to and fro, some entering and some coming from this chapel. No one said a word. And Mr. Lockridge believed that he was losing his mind and this apparition was but a picture of his disordered brain. But he followed the crowd and entered the chapel. A church was fitted out as other and larger Catholic churches. The altar was there, the incense, the candles, the crucifix and a priest. The murmur of the mass as read by the priest convinced Mr. Lockridge that this was no dream but a reality. When he left the church he followed the Mexicans as they descended the new well lighted way into the mine. No one interfered with him, but every person wished him good afternoon.

Still there was no sound of nor sight of labor. Every man seemed intent merely on attending service. He followed in their wake, and presently he heard the sound of a cable. It came nearer and nearer and at last he saw it just below him down two more flights of steps. One end of the cable went down a shaft, so he followed the other end and it led him to the engine room. When the engineer caught sight of him, and said, "Hello, stranger, where did you come from?" Mr. Lockridge says he felt at last as if he had awakened from some frightful nightmare. Those words in his own tongue and in a friendly tone made about the most eloquent and brilliant speech Mr. Lockridge had ever heard. The engineer gave him a drink, and warned him not to tell how he obtained his entrance. Mr. Lockridge asked the stranger if he would select him a piece of ore from the mountainous pile where he stood. The man complied. He said Mr. Lockridge had come down 2,500 feet by the steps and they still continued a thousand feet, which distance he would have to traverse in order to go up the shaft with the miners. Mr. Lockridge continued slowly to descend via the old stone steps, hewn centuries ago by the Aztecs.

When he reached the last elevation, and was again wondering how he could escape he was tapped on the shoulder. The mine superintendent stood there. He questioned him severely as to the entrance, but Mr. Lockridge said he found the door open and entered, but that he would be only too glad to exit if the superintendent would show him how. The Englishman said he would send a bunch of miners up in half an hour and Mr. Lockridge could accompany them.

The car finally came down. It consisted of four pieces of sheet iron, one on each side of a platform coming together at the top. The only preventive from slipping off to the depth of the mine, 2,700 feet below, was an iron railing which came about as high as the average man's waist. Onto this platform the unwelcome guest was crowded with about two dozen miners. And the trighula scent began. Mr. Lockridge said this part of the trip seemed longer than his four hours clambering down the steps. It took twenty minutes to go up.

Once on top Mr. Lockridge staggered into the hands of the general superintendent, an Englishman. Lockridge was held for half an hour, and finally released with the information that not one stranger in a hundred could have gone down the steps and escaped death. Lockridge went to the Woods hotel, and while he was laid up he attracted so many people to the hotel to hear his adventure that the proprietor did not charge him anything for board.

With Electric Battery and the Mail Carrier Was Fined.

Milwaukee, Wis., August 26.—Because he used an electric battery on his horse to make him go fast, Jacob Rapp was fined $1 and costs on complaint of the Humane Society.

Rapp is a rural mail carrier and is fond of going at a good clip. A year ago Superintendent Clayton, of the Humane Society, warned him never to use his whip on his horse.

Rapp then got a battery, attached it to his horse and whenever he thought the steed needed a little ginger he turned on the current.

That was why Rapp could cover his route faster than any one else in the service. The battery did the trick.

Do You Want the Best?

The following letter from the nephew of Sir Isaac Pitman Co., Ltd. needs no comment:

86 & 87 Fleet Street, London, E. C., England, July 29, 1907.

John R. Gregg, Esq., Chicago, U. S. A.

Dear Mr. Gregg:

I have watched for some time the remarkable progress of Gregg Shorthand in America and have read your magazine with interest from month to month. This set me to thinking. It seemed to me that the continued success of a comparatively new system in America, where shorthand is made such a strong feature of business, was evidence that it must have some substantial advantages over other systems. This impression was deepened by the reports I received from different sources, and I decided to make a fair and independent investigation of the system on my own account. You will readily understand that one who has lived in the atmosphere of Pitman's Shorthand, as I have, would find it exceedingly difficult to regard other systems without "envy, hatred and malice and all uncharitableness." Yet as I continued the study of the Gregg System I was amazed at its logical and practical arrangement and the absence of "Exceptions to Rules." The ease with which I acquired the system, even after having written the older style 28 years, was almost incredible—I was ever more surprised at the completeness and brevity of the outlines and the facility with which they could be written. Your system is based on scientific principles, applied in a scientific way, and I believe that it is destined to become the shorthand of the English-speaking people.

Faithfully yours,

C. PITMAN,

Nephew of Sir Isaac Pitman and formerly manager for 20 years to Sir Isaac Pitman, Ltd.

JEWELS WERE "NIPPED"

ROBBED HER HOSTS IN ORDER TO SECURE FUNDS FOR SPECULATION.

A SENSATION IN THE SOCIAL CIRCLE

This is the Charge Against a Beautiful Convent Graduate, Who Has Lost a Fortune of $75,000.00.

Chicago, Aug. 26.—Miss Rose Haines, a beautiful convent graduate who carried off the honors of her class, a prominent church worker of Hyde Park and a daughter of one of the wealthiest men of Bridgeport, Conn., is a prisoner in a Hyde Park police station cell, accused of theft.

Word of the young woman's arrest caused a sensation in the fashionable homes of Hyde Park. Despite two charges of larceny made against Miss Haines, other families whom the police say lost through the visit of the young woman to their homes refused to add to the humiliation of the young woman by making accusations.

The principal charge against Miss Haines is that she stole two large diamonds valued at $500.

The police declare they have found two pawn shops in the loop district where Miss Haines has pawned $1,200 worth of diamonds and jewelry.

She was arrested as she entered the open Board of Trade, where the police believe she was about to speculate.

Those who will appear against her when she is brought before Judge Girtin in the municipal court are:

Mrs. William O. Martin, of 4458 Lake avenue.

Mrs. D. Vrancks, of 168 Oakwood boulevard.

One of the most astonishing of the charges made by the police is that Miss Haines is a gambler, and that she lost a fortune of $75,000 on the open Board of Trade.

Several years ago Miss Haines left her home in Bridgeport, Conn., after the death of her father. At that time she fell heir to a fortune of $75,000. Her early life was spent in the east at a convent, where she completed her education and carried off the honors.

Two months ago she was invited to the home of Mrs. Martin. While a guest there a small chamois bag, containing two large diamond set rings, disappeared. Suspicion was directed toward the servants, but nothing was learned of the missing rings.

Later the detectives learned that Miss Haines was the only one in the room when the jewels disappeared and she was suspected. At the home of Mrs. Vrancks, in Oakwood boulevard, also it is declared Miss Haines appropriated jewelry and valuables.

LID ON CHURCH CHOIRS

Pennsylvania Mayor Says They Can't Sing on Sunday.

DuBois, Pa., Aug. 26.—Mayor Lewis Boyer has issued the most sweeping Sunday closing law that ever has been promulgated in this section of the state.

Beginning yesterday street cars must stop running, every wheel within the city limits, including private vehicles, must cease at 9 a. m., Sunday newspapers must suspend operations and the lid must be put on absolutely everything that bears the semblance of work.

But Mayor Boyer goes further. He decrees that paid choirs in the city's fashionable churches must not sing, and that the church organists must cease playing. He even threatens to also prohibit the taking up of collections in the churches. The mayor's sweeping order is aimed at supporters of the new Sunday law.

KILLED BY WOMAN IN DUEL

Tenant's Wife Better Shot Than Landlord, Who Attacked Her.

Mount Sterling, Ky., Aug. 26.—Alvin Thomas, a prominent farmer of Montgomery county, was shot and killed in a duel Sunday afternoon by the wife of one of his tenants, Abe Brumet, another tenant.

The Brumets were tenants of Thomas, and the men had a disagreement. Yesterday while Brumet was away from home, Thomas shot at his wife three times, one bullet grazing her head. She ran and secured a revolver, firing at Thomas five times, one bullet piercing the brain, killing him instantly.

The young woman, as a result of the shock, is in a critical condition. Thomas was 70 years old and leaves a family.

Mrs. Brumet is a native of Johnson county and is highly respected.

A panic seized the spectators, and many women fainted. In the rush to escape women and children were trampled upon.

IT IS VERY UNDIGNIFIED, HE SAYS

The New House of Worship Is Dedicated at King's Highway and Northland Avenue in St. Louis Sunday.

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 26.—Archbishop Glennon, in his dedicatory sermon at the new Church of the Blessed Sacrament, King's highway and Northland avenue, yesterday expressed disapproval of the raising of money for the erection of churches by giving ice cream suppers and dancing parties.

He declared that church building and maintenance was a duty that should be met by the parishioner in accordance with the duty of the responsibility.

"Some build churches by dancing," the prelate said, "others by giving ice cream parties, suppers, picnics and various other means by which people are cajoled and humored into giving. I do not like these sideways and by-ways of getting money for worthy causes."

"The best and the most honest way to build a church is for the parishioners to estimate its cost and pay for it, not by giving 10 cents for a dish of ice cream and 5 cents to the church."

"You cannot serve God and Mammon."

"If you can afford to spend 15 cents, it were better to give this sum to the church directly."

Further discussing the question of support of the church, the archbishop urged a greater sense of responsibility on the part of the young people of a parish. He deplored the practice of a large number of Catholics, who do not affiliate with any particular parish, thus becoming, as it were, nomadic, and taking upon themselves no parochial duties. He said:

"There are no orphans in the church, for Mary above is our mother. There are no minors in the church, because we all stand before Almighty God independent with regard to our souls."

"Your priest has his duty to perform for you, and in like manner you owe certain responsibilities to him. He is a consecrated man. He must leave friends, relatives and home. He must tread the rugged path alone. He must bear on his vestments the cross and must bear the spirit of the cross in his heart. He must prepare to go where duty calls, not because it is an act of heroism, but because it is his simple, everyday duty."

"Just as he meets these obligations so must you do your duty towards him."

"Then also there are other duties for the priest, the shepherd of his flock. Other sheep there are who are not in the fold. These also must I bring in. They shall hear my voice and there shall be one fold and one shepherd." Christ calls them "other sheep" not necessarily enemies of His, but "other sheep."

"I would like to see this parish one of the model parishes. From out of these ground today consecrated I hope to see blossom the flowers of hope, faith and charity, and this congregation brought together today under the cross erected here united in the precious blood of Jesus. I want the members of this congregation, like Saint Louis, the king of the French and patron saint of this city, whose feast we celebrated today, to be strong crusaders for the church and its principles and to bear in their hearts the Catholic faith of our fathers."

GUILTY OF FORGERY

DO PIE NO WORK, THEY CRY

Messenger Boys in Pittsburg Insist Upon Their Pastry.

Pittsburg, Pa., Aug. 26.—Because the Western Union Telegraph company cut pie off the bill of fare at the dining room for the strike breakers and others in the downtown office here, the messenger boys have struck. Their stand is no pie, no work.

They tied up the delivery business pretty well Sunday. Some time ago when the boys struck for 3 cents a message the telegraph company quickly broke the strike by offering the boys three square meals a day in the dining rooms. There was pie on the bill of fare then, but yesterday the pie was cut off and today the revolt came.

JUMP FROM RUNAWAY CAR

Eight Persons Injured as it Dashes Into an Open Switch.

Pittsburg, Pa., Aug. 26.—Eight persons were more or less seriously injured last night when a car on the Pennsylvania and Shady avenue line of the Pittsburg railway company got beyond control of the motorman on a steep grade on Shady avenue near Fifth avenue, this city, and ran into an open switch. The car was well filled with passengers who became panic-stricken when they saw it was unmanageable, and all made a wild rush for the door.

The eight persons injured succeeded in jumping from the car and were badly bruised and painfully cut about the hands and face. The other passengers and the motorman and conductor were not hurt.

Chicago, Ill., Aug. 26.—Miss Flossie Bennett, of Kankakee, Ill., the sixteen-year-old daughter of Samuel Bennett, of the Hospital for the Insane, went to sleep early last Monday evening, and since that time has been conscious only a moment, when she appeared to be suffering from an illusion that she was lying in a coffin.

"Oh, mama," she sobbed, "why did you let them put me in this white coffin? Don't let them do it again. Don't let me go to sleep."

She was lifted from the bed, and every effort to keep her awake was made, but she fell asleep again.

When Frick's New Church Chimes Played Giddy Tunes.

Pittsburg, Pa., Aug. 26.—The set of chimes costing $12,000 which H. C. Frick presented to Calvary Protestant Episcopal church have been hung and were played on last evening for the first time.

Some of the people are scandalized, and are wondering what Mr. Frick will say about it. They all agree, however, that the chimes are very fine.

'TIS ANOTHER FAIR ONE

WHO HAS WON THE LOVE OF HER HUSBAND, ACCORDING TO MRS. TUCKER.

'UNCLE SAM' NOW INVESTIGATING

Mrs. Myrtle Platt and the Gallant Colonel Are Guests Under the Same Roof in New Mexico.

Raton, N. M., Aug. 26.—Lieutenant Colonel William F. Tucker, U. S. A., son-in-law of Mrs. John A. Logan, whose moral character is being probed by the war department, and whose name has been linked by his wife with that of Mrs. Myrtle Platt in her suit for a division of his property, is in Raton, where he has been a guest at the home of C. R. Frey, a brother of Mrs. Platt.

Mrs. Platt, who, Mrs. Logan believes, has won the love of Colonel Tucker, also is visiting her brother. The concurrent visit of both Colonel Tucker and Mrs. Platt has quite naturally aroused a good deal of interest here, and Mother Grundy is busy gossiping.

It develops that Mrs. Platt came here July 10, but her arrival was not announced. Colonel Tucker arrived August 10, and since then he and Mrs. Platt have been seen frequently together.

Mrs. Mary Logan-Tucker has preferred charges against her husband with the war department, and these charges are now being investigated by Secretary Taft.

The matrimonial troubles of Colonel Tucker and his wife have occupied much space in the newspapers during the last few weeks, and a sensation is looked for in army circles when their differences are taken before the war department or divorce courts. It is understood Mrs. Tucker is prepared to back her charges with corroborative evidence.

Since her arrival here, Mrs. Platt has been the recipient of many a box of hothouse flowers shipped by a Denver firm. Who footed these bills has not been developed.

Shortly after her arrival at Raton Mrs. Platt made arrangements to give a big dinner party to Colonel Tucker, but he failed to arrive when expected, and for this and other reasons the affair was called off.

TRIED TO TRADE CLOTHES

Police Keep Philadelphians From Disrobing in Street.

Philadelphia, Aug. 26.—But for the timely interference of Patrolman Cameron, of the Hanover street station, persons in the vicinity of the North station would have had an unusual experience about 9:30 last night. Catherine Lyons, aged 28, and a sailor who gave his name as Daniel Ahren, both of whom were in a jovial frame of mind, decided that for the best interest of both they should exchange clothing.

Both had partly disrobed and the exchange of wearing apparel was in progress much to the dismay of a number of women who were so shocked that they couldn't turn their eyes away when an officer appeared. He put a sudden end to the disrobing act by sending both to the station on the charge of drunkenness.

MET HERE TO MARRY

The Knot Was Tied by Judge Kennedy This Afternoon.

W. J. Willman, a striking Western Union telegraph operator from New Orleans, La., and Miss Laura Dixon Bryan, an accomplished young lady of the same place, were quietly married by Probate Judge Kennedy at his office in the court house this afternoon. There was no pomp or display to the ceremony, and the couple left this afternoon for Kansas City to spend their honeymoon.

Mr. Willman had planned joining the LeBurno carnival company, while his bride, who had been his old sweetheart at New Orleans, has been traveling through the country on a vacation. By appointment the two met here and were married soon afterward.

MAY LYNCH BROKEN BANKER

Heavily Armed Foreign Depositors Wild Over Losses.

Somerset, Pa., Aug. 26.—Weeping pitifully, Samuel D. Livengood, owner of the wrecked Farmers' bank at Meyersdale, was brought to Somerset Saturday night, charged with embezzlement by William P. Meyers, who lost $5,000.

The Farmers' bank, an old and esteemed institute, closed its doors Monday, there being not a dollar in the vaults.

About 300 foreign miners had money on deposit in the wrecked bank. They are heavily armed, and say they will lynch or shoot Livengood on sight, and heavy depositors will likely prosecute him for larceny in bailer.

A portion of the carnival's equipment, which has been in Iowa, will be delayed in getting here, owing to a wreck on the Rock Island railway, at Eldon, Ia., but to a Democrat-Sentinel representative this afternoon Mr. Le Burno said he would have everything, with the possible exception of the Merry-go-round, in "full bloom" tonight.

STONES HELD DOWN BODY

They Were Fastened With Wire Around the Corpse.

Ottawa, Ohio, August 26.—The body of John Trowant, aged 23, was taken from the Auglaize river near Dupont, his home, and about eight miles from here, late Saturday afternoon.

There was a bullet hole in the temple and the body had been weighted down with stones about the neck, wrists, ankles and body. Wire had been used to fasten the stones, and it was carefully twisted and cut with nippers.

Some children playing along the river bank noticed a coat floating in the water and told some farm hands near by. These men waded in water up to their necks and stumbled over the body.

The young man left his home last Tuesday to go to Cascade, about two miles distant, on some business for his father, but never reached that place. He had no valuables, so it is not thought that robbery was the motive. Indeed, no motive is known, as he was well liked, had no known enemies, and there was no train in which he was in.

A DYNAMITE SHIP AFIRE

The Heroic Fight of a Pacific Boat's Crew at Sea.

Seattle, Wash., Aug. 26.—With a cargo of dynamite, powder and other explosives in its hold, fire whipped and fanned by gales, swept the steamship Eureka, Captain Goughly, on its voyage from San Francisco to this port.

Except for the heroic work of the crew every man on board would have been killed.

It required a 2-hours' struggle in the night, with the wind blowing fifty miles an hour, to prevent the fire from communicating with the cargo of explosives.

THE SILENCE OF YEARS

IS BROKEN BY TAYLOR, WHO OFFERS TO RETURN TO KENTUCKY.

IF A $100,000 PROTECTION FUND

Is Put in Treasury and an "Upright" Judge and Bi-Partisan Jury Shall Be Selected to Try His Case.

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 25.—"Memories tender, dear and sad bind my heart to my old Kentucky home; there I was born; there I struggled and hoped for success; there I was honored and trusted time and again by my fellow citizens; there the ashes of my kindred sleep; there thousands of true hearts still reach loyally out to me. I would be either more or less than a man if I could forget all the memories or stifle the hope that some day I shall return to the scenes and my friends and there be vindicated."

Breaking a silence of several years on a subject of vital interest to himself and his state, William S. Taylor, former governor of Kentucky, gave vent to the foregoing in a statement he issued to the public in reply to one made a few days ago by Robert Franklin, commonwealth attorney, in charge of the prosecution of Caleb Powers, offering Taylor immunity if he would return to Kentucky and testify in the Powers case.

But Taylor, like a hunted being, sees in Franklin's proposition a ruse to entice him back to Kentucky and throw him into prison, where he may be made to suffer as Powers has. He declares vigorously that Franklin's proposition was not made in good faith, and that no set of officers in Kentucky has the legal right to guarantee him immunity from prosecution so long as there is a criminal charge against him.

Taylor declares he will return to Kentucky if Franklin absolutely guarantees that he will be tried as fairly and impartially as others are tried in criminal cases—in short, that an upright judge and bi-partisan jury shall be selected to try his case.

He makes the specific proposal, however, that the $100,000 prosecution fund must be returned to the state treasury so that there will be no extra incentive from that source for his prosecution.

Taylor's statement is full of the old flame against his enemies, and is interpolated here and there with a bit of pathos, showing that the feeling of being so near his old Kentucky home, and yet so far away is beginning to wear upon him.

A Lexington, Ky., dispatch says: Governor Beckham and Commonwealth Attorney Franklin are preparing to answer the proposition made by Taylor. They are willing to give him a "slide of his own choosing and to allow a jury composed of six democrats and six republicans, the case to go no further and not use as witnesses against him Henry E. Youtsey and F. Wharton Golden.

Caleb Powers, in an interview, declares that the defense is put to a great disadvantage by the big fund voted by the legislature to go to ward prosecuting the men arrested.

MARRIED AT ST. JOE

Mrs. S. W. Ricketts, of Sedalia, Among the Guests.

A very pretty wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Bromley, 416 East Colorado avenue, St. Joseph, Mo., Thursday evening, at 8:30 o'clock, when Mrs. Bromley's sister, Miss Grace Pearl Rhodes, of Aurora, Ill., was united in marriage to Mr. David W. Cowan, of St. Joseph. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. A. C. Spencer, pastor of the Grace M. E. church. Only near relatives and intimate friends were present, among them being Mrs. S. W. Ricketts, of Sedalia.

After congratulations, light refreshments were served. A carriage in waiting took the bridal couple to their home at 1703 North Main street, where they will be at home to friends after September 1.

Mrs. Cowan's home is in Aurora, Ill., but for the past two years she has lived with her sister. Mr. Cowan's former home was in Sedalia, where he was born and reared. For the past four years he has been employed by the Bell Telephone company.

WASHING WITHOUT WATER

Is Like Trying to Get Rid of Dandruff Without Herpicide.

Did you ever see any one trying to wash themselves without soap or water? If you did what would you say of him?

It is every bit as foolish to try to get rid of dandruff and to prevent baldness by feeding the germs which cause it, with Cantharides, Vaseline, Glycerine and similar substances which form the principal ingredients of most so-called Hair Growers.

Newbro's Herpicide is successful because it attacks and kills the parasitic germ which feeds on the hair roots. It is the original and only genuine scalp germicide manufactured.

"SHOE SHINING SLAVES"

IT IS BELIEVED THAT GREEK BOYS ARE IMPORTED BY PADRONES.

INDIANA OFFICIALS ARE STIRRED

The Case Has Attracted Wide Interest, and It Will Be Thoroughly Investigated by the Government.

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 26.—Mayor Bookwalter and Police Superintendent Metzger believe they at last have a clew that may lead to the exposure of the padrone system by which scores of young Greek boys are sent from their country to the larger American cities to become slaves in shoe-shining parlors.

A letter received by Mayor Bookwalter from E. H. Clark, immigration commissioner at Montreal, says that a 12-year-old Greek boy consigned to his brother, George Michali, of Indianapolis, is being held at Montreal until some word can be received here as to what to do with him.

The boy said he addressed his alleged brother in care of Box 267, Indianapolis postoffice. The police learned that Michali is employed by the Illinois Central road, near here. When they found him he declared that he was not expecting his brother or any other boy from Greece.

He said that he has a brother there 15 years old. The fact, however, that the boy at Montreal was consigned to Michali leads Mayor Bookwalter and Superintendent Metzger to believe that he knows more about the case than he will tell. He will be kept under close surveillance until the police have time for further investigation.

Mayor Bookwalter some time ago complained to the state department at Washington about the slavery of the little Greek boys in the shoe-shining shops here, and he received a reply stating that an investigation is being made.

All efforts here, however, to get evidence proving that the boys were not permitted to have their liberty and were virtually slaves have proved unsuccessful.

THEY MET AT WINDSOR

The Henry County Rural Carriers in Convention.

Windsor, Mo., Aug. 26.—A convention of the rural mail carriers of Henry county was held here Saturday with a good attendance.

The question of good roads was discussed at length, as were other matters pertaining to the rural service and in the evening the visitors were entertained by a band concert in the park.

There are forty-three rural free delivery routes in Henry county, and the aggregate distance covered by the carriers each day is more than 1,000 miles.

SECRET OF GOOD MANNERS.

Two Theories of the Acquisition—Unselfishness and Conventionality.

Most mothers hold, consciously or unconsciously, one of two theories about the acquirement of manners by their children. One mother says, "Manners are only the outward sign of the inner nature. If my daughter has a kind heart and a well trained mind she will behave in a gentle, charming fashion. I will teach her compassion, respect for age, unselfish zeal for helping with the world's work. Her manners will take care of themselves." Another mother says, "My girls will never get on without conventional manners. They shall be taught from babyhood to emulate the speech and bearing of ladies. They shall be instructed in the proper behavior for every occasion. They shall walk and dance and write and speak with graceful perfection." Neither method, says the Youth's Companion, produces altogether satisfactory results. Unselfishness is truly the foundation of good manners, but not the superstructure. Many conventional restrictions have grown about social relations. Some can be explained by the demand of kindness and some cannot.

HOW THEY MAY FINISH

The Ball Clubs Comprising the Western Association.

Here is the way the windup of the Western association is sized up by the Oklahoma City Times-Journal:

"The season will be brought to a close on September 22. Wichita has won the pennant. The fight for second place is between Hutchinson and Oklahoma City. Joplin and Topeka can fight it out for third place and Webb City, Springfield and Leavenworth can find solace in the second division.

"Unless something unforeseen happens Manager MacFarland's men look good for second place. The team is going better right now than it ever has. The team work is better, every department is stronger and the players are holding their positions splendidly."

Galbraith was tried on the charge of murder at the July term of court, but the jury stood 10 to 2 for acquittal. In entering the dismissal the prosecuting attorney says material witnesses are missing and cannot be found.

A PARADE OF OLD MAIDS

WAS FOR BENEFIT OF LIBRARY FUND AT PLAINFIELD, INDIANA.

STRIKING BANNERS WERE IN LINE

"Oh, Lord, for a Man," "I'll Sew Your Buttons On," "Let Me Darn Your Socks," "I've Got My Eye on You," Etc., Were Carried.

Plainfield, Ind., Aug. 26.—The most striking procession ever seen in this vicinity passed through the streets of Plainfield Saturday afternoon.

Dressed in all sorts of fantastical
costumes, each one bearing a large banner, inscribed with words calculated to catch the masculine eye,
and headed by their own band, 100
"old maids," all members of the Old Maids' club walked on "dress parade" along the main streets.

The occasion of the parade was an entertainment to be given by the Old Maids' club that night for the benefit of the public library. The banners carried by the girls bore
such inscriptions as the following:

Oh, Lord for a Man.
I'll Sew Your Buttons On.
I Once Was Young.
I've Got My Eye on You.
Let Me Darn Your Socks.
Ask Papa.

This Is So Sudden, etc.

One "sweet young thing" stalked
hauntily apart from her companions,
bearing a banner with this legend:
"I Don't Belong With That Gang."
The brunettes of the party were clad as gypsies; others were dressed
as typical old maids; some represented "swell society" spinsters;
while at the end of the procession
half a dozen girls, clad in the regulation clown costumes, rode in a little cart drawn by a white donkey,
and amused the crowd by their ac-
tics.

A feature of the parade was Cupid's chariot. Since the little god of love has, to all appearances, deserted Plainfield, the old maids determined to have one of their own.

Little Fred Osburn played the part of Cupid and shot his blunt arrows
promiscuously into the assembled throng of bachelors. Every bachelor who was hit had to pay $1 to the library fund for the arrow.

CHARMS CAUSE DISCHARGE

But Orchestra Boycotts the Lookout Inn Manager.

Chattanooga, Tenn., Aug. 24.— Pretty brown eyes, lovely arms and a shapely neck combined in the person of Miss Lois Mills, the violinist in the Lookout Inn orchestra, have created havoc at this popular pleasure resort.

As a result the Musicians' union
has taken up the matter of her discharge, and the Inn is without an orchestra except what can be picked up among the negro organizations of the city. Miss Mills and her sister are noted beauties and are the "leaders in the orchestra which was employed under contract for the season
at Lookout Inn, on Lookout mountain.

Miss Lois Mills is unusually pretty and attractive, and as she plays
her violin her eyes show all the music in her soul.

Miss Gibson lost her beau and ap-
has an attractive daughter, and this daughter had a beau. The combination of the brown eyes and the violin
under Miss Mills' skillful management was too much for the beau, and he succumbed to the artist's charms.

Miss Gibson lost her beau and appealed to her father, who immediately discharged the Mills orchestra for flirting. As this was a union orchestra and the union refused to accept this as a basis for the lady's discharge, the Inn was blacklisted by the union and Manager Gibson now has to employ negro musicians. Miss Mills brought suit on her contract
and the case is now in court.

REPUBLICAN TO BE MAYOR

McClellan and President of Aldermen Away On Vacation.

New York, Aug. 26.—New York
City will be governed by a republican mayor for the next two weeks, Elias Goodman, vice president of the board of aldermen, having become acting mayor in the absence of Mayor McClellan and President Mc-Gowan, of the aldermen, who have gone away on vacations.

This is the first time in the history of the city that a republican has been mayor while a Tammany administration was in control. There is no fear, however, among office holders, as Acting Mayor Goodman
has no power to make appointments.

Women of Great Bravery.

Women are not, as a class, either moral or physical cowards. In personal bravery they far excel the majority of men when faced by an emergency. Some of their achievements are worthy of record among the heroic deeds of the race. Lady Baker,
an English woman, was such an absolute stranger to fear that she would walk alone into the tents of the most ruthless slave dealer and calmly lead off his captives from under his very eyes, and Mrs. Marion Mulhall, who risked death a dozen times and triumphed over the strongest man in the dark wild country that lies between the Amazon and the Andes, is a woman of such a frail and delicate appearance that one might think a March wind would blow her away.

Taking a Wrong View.

How many take a wrong view of life, and waste their nervous system
in endeavoring to accumulate wealth
without thinking of the present happiness they are throwing away. It is not wealth nor honor that makes a man happy. Many of the most wretched beings on earth have both. But it is a radiant, sunny spirit which knows how to bear little trials and enjoy little comforts, and thus extract happiness from every incident in life.—The Christian World.

Nassau.

A free patient came into one of the New York hospitals the other morning. She had been there before.
"Well, how are you to-day?" inquired
the physician who saw her. "I ain't suffering no pain, doctor," she replied; "but I have such a feeling of Nassau all the time."—Judge.

A WOMAN'S CURIOSITY

By CORNELIA REDMOND

(Copyright, by Joseph B. Bowles.)

It all occurred during the couple of days that I happened to spend in the town during the middle of last summer. I had been visiting some friends in the western part of the state and was on my way to join my mother at
a little place on the coast of Maine.
My brother Fred was in possession of the town house, and I thought I would stop there for the purpose of putting some necessary repairs on my wardrobe.

Fred was very glad to see me, but before I had been in his presence half an hour I had noticed that he was strangely preoccupied, and altogether
quite unlike his usual laughing self.

He tried at first to evade my questions, but ended by confessing all. It was as I had suspected; he was in love. Of course, the object of his adoration was young, beautiful and clever.
I was obliged to listen patiently to a lengthy eulogy on her perfections before I could extract any definite facts in regard to her. I finally learned that Fred had met her early in the summer while on a visit to an old college chum who had a place somewhere on Long Island. The young lady in question was a friend of the chum's wife, and happened to be staying with them at the same time. I gradually drew from my brother that he had repeated his visit to his friend's place, more than once, and that he had since made flying trips
to Lake George, where the young lady had gone for the remainder of the summer.

"I wish you could meet her, Alice,"
he said, enthusiastically; "I am sure you two would just suit one another."
By the way, her brother is boarding next door. Nice fellow. I visit him quite often of an evening in his top story front room. He has a pretty picture of her on his writing table, and the young man laughed softly to himself. "Helen is her name," he added, presently. "Helen Preston. I don't think I have told you before. Pretty name, don't you think so?"

Of course, I agreed.
That evening Fred told me that he had an engagement with Mr. Preston which he could not very well break,
and asked me if I would mind being left alone for a couple of hours. I told him not to think of me for a moment,
for with Mary, our old cook in the kitchen, I should have not the slightest fear.

As he left me I watched him from the front window. He sprang lightly up the steps of the next house, from whence I saw him emerge in a few moments accompanied by a man taller than himself. The two started up the street together and I followed my brother's tall friend with my eyes until he was lost to view in the deepening twilight, for like all little women
I have always had an fancy for big men.

Then I began to think how I should pass the evening. It was too warm to light the gas and settle down to any regular occupation, and it was too early to go to bed. Finally remembering what I had heard that the people in tenement houses do on warm evenings, I sought the roof top, where, to my delight, a faint breeze was to be felt.

I sat down with my back against a tall brick chimney and began to count
the stars as they appeared one by
one. I very soon exhausted this occupation, or rather the occupation very soon exhausted me, and then my thoughts drifted back to all that my brother had been telling me about the girl to whom he had lost his heart.
Of course he thought her pretty and all that, but I wondered whether I should think her so. I wished very much that I could have one look at her face, and then—oh! wretched moment! my wandering gaze fell upon
the open scuttle-way of the next
house, and in an instant the words
"top story front room—pretty picture on writing table" flashed through my mind.

I arose quickly and made my way
across the next roof to the opening.
The hall into which I looked was dimly lighted, and I could see that the door of the front room was ajar. There was not a sound to be heard, and it seemed to me that it would be such an easy matter to run down the steps have a look at my possible sister-in-law, and return by the same way with out any one being the wiser. In an other moment I had started on my wild venture.

I could hear voices from below, as I slowly descended step by step, but the upper part of the house was evidently deserted. I pushed open the door of the front room, and as I had expected, found it empty. There was sufficient light from the gas jet in the hall to enable me to find the writing table, upon which, as Fred had said, stood a framed photograph.
I took it up and carried it out into the hall that I might see it more distinctly. Yes, my brother was right.
Helen Preston was a pretty girl. The way her hair was arranged high on the shapely head and curled in little natural rings around the face. The features were small and delicate, and there was a certain expression in the eyes which made the picture seem strangely like life.

I suppose I must have stood for some time contemplating this pleasing likeness of the girl who had been witched my matter-of-fact brother, and I had certainly lost sight of the fact that I was in a house where I had no right to be. I was recalled to myself by the sound of footsteps on the stairs.

Hastily returning the picture to its place, I rushed out into the hall
where I turned out the gas, hoping that in the darkness I might escape observation. Then terror-stricken, I tried to find the steps which led to the roof, but in my hurry I stumbled and fell.

"Who is that?" asked a man's voice
quite close to me, to which question
I made no reply.

Then I heard the newcomer strike
a match, and in another moment the gas blazed up and I recognized my brother's tall friend.

"Are you living in this house?" he asked in surprise.

"I shook my head in the negative."
"Perhaps you are visiting some one here," he ventured again.

"No," I returned, not knowing what to say or do next.

I did not wish to reveal my identity
which I should certainly have had to do had I attempted to leave the house
by the same way that I had entered it.
I was much relieved when Mr.
Preston said quietly:

"Let me show you the way out,"
and then in shame and humiliation I turned and followed him down the stairs.

As he reached the front door he stopped, with his hand on the knob,
and asked:

"Have you taken anything that does not belong to you?"

"Nothing," I replied, with convincing earnestness.

He opened the door, and slipping something into my hand, said kindly:
"Don't do it again, my girl."

"I never will," I returned, heartily,
as I fled down the steps, not knowing whether to laugh or cry at having been taken for a sneak thief. I concluded to do the former when I looked in my hand and saw that it was a five-dollar gold piece that Mr.
Preston had given me.

Fearing that he might still be watching me, I walked a little way up
the street, and then when I thought he would probably have relaxed his vigilance, I returned and rang our own door bell. Fortunately Fred had not yet returned, and old Mary, who let me in, was satisfied with the explanation that I had gotten locked out. I went directly upstairs, closed the scuttle-way and retired to my own room, but it was hours before I could get to sleep, for my evening's experience had made me almost hysterical.

Fred could not understand why I insisted upon starting off for Maine the next morning, instead of staying over another day as I had originally intended. He said that he had asked Mr.
Preston to come in to dinner that evening to meet me, at which information
I turned cold, and decided that should any untoward accident interfere with my departure, I should retire to my own room with a sudden and violent headache.

Fortunately I got off by the ten o'clock train, and late that evening
arrived at my destination.

Three weeks later Fred wrote us
that he was engaged, and early in October mother and I betook ourselves
to Boston, where the Prestons lived,
to be present at the wedding.

I found Helen even prettier than her picture, and as Fred had predicted, she and I at once became the best of friends.

Her brother was formally presented
to me the day before the wedding,
when we had all gone to look at the presents, and I saw in a moment that he had no suspicion of my identity
with the sneak thief to whom he had given a five-dollar gold piece.

My subsequent intercourse with him did not by any means lessen my admiration for big men, and at the end of a year there was another marriage between the two families.

It was only after we had been engaged several weeks, and under promise of the strictest secrecy that I confessed to my lover that it was I whom he had conducted down the stairs of his boarding house, and let out at the front door on that memorable summer evening.

He laughed heartily when he recalled the conversation that had passed between us, and to this day continues to remind me of the difficulties into which my woman's curiosity
led me.

As for the gold piece, my husband
has had the date of our first meeting
engraved upon it, and always wears
it upon his watch chain.

TWENTY HURT IN D. & R. G.

Passenger Train Wrecked by Engine Throwing a Switch.

Pueblo, Colo., Aug. 26.—Twenty persons suffered injuries and a number of others were shocked and bruised when Denver & Rio Grande passenger train No. 5, westbound, was wrecked a mile east of Pueblo, a small station about twenty-five miles

west of Pueblo, Sunday afternoon.

The wreck was caused by the second engine of the train throwing a switch, which caused it to take the siding, derailing and throwing it against the embankment, express and mail cars, a day coach and five Pullmans from the rails.

The second section of No. 5, which followed close behind, and eastbound
No. 4, were stopped a short distance from the scene of the wreck, and passengers transferred each way and those who were able continued on their journey. The injured were taken to Salida.

REGARDING RAILROADS

HEAVILY LOADED TRAINS COL-LIDE ON THE FRISCO
NEAR SAPULPA.

COACH, CAB AND CABOOSE ITEMS

Matters of Interest Picked Up From Various Sources for the Benefit of Democrat-Sentinel Readers.

"Let's jump," shouted Fireman Har-
ner, of the westbound Frisco passenger train No. 497, when he saw that a collision with 412, eastbound, was inevitable Saturday afternoon.

"Jump yourself," Engineer Bentz
replied, "I'm going to stick to the engine," and throwing on the air brake
tried vainly to avert the crash.

Bentz's bravery was futile. The long passenger trains, both heavily loaded with excursionists, met head-
on on a long curve east of Red Fork,
about ten miles from Sapulpa, I. T.,
and the heroic engineer of the westbound train, the fireman of the eastbound train, and two other men were killed, and thirty persons injured.

The wreck is said to have been due to the failure of the dispatcher at Sapulpa to issue an order to the eastbound train to take the siding at Red Fork.

Both engines were destroyed, the baggage car on the eastbound train
and the baggage car and combination coach on the westbound train were telescoped, and, catching fire, burned
up.

Train Killed Section Boss
James Condon, a Missouri Pacific
section boss, living at Lynch's hotel,
city limits and Nicholson avenue,
Kansas City, was run down and killed
by a train in the Missouri Pacific yards, East bottoms, Saturday night.
Condon had been struck by an eastbound train, probably Missouri Pacific
No. 125. He was 65 years old.

A Reduction in Wages.
Local newspapers report that block
signal operators on the New York Central, in Central New York, now receiving from $52 to $65 a month,
have received notice of a reduction of wages on October 1, when, under the new state law, their working time will be reduced to eight hours a day.

Missouri Pacific Men Killed.
Four section hands were killed and
the foreman of the gang was dangerously injured Saturday when a railway box car collided with three loaded cars on a spur track of the Missouri Pacific railway near Eureka, St.
Louis county, causing a collision of
the loaded cars with a handcar.

Big Increase in Business.

GILDED LADS IN AUTO CRASH

Sons of Dan Hanna and Late Governor Higgins Hurt.

New York, Aug. 26.—The fact that the canopies were tightly drawn over the seats of the big touring car of Frank Harrison Higgins, son of the late Governor Higgins, when it collided with a trolley car on Coney Island avenue early yesterday was all that saved Mr. Higgins, Ethel Levey, the vaudeville actress; Mrs.
Mabel Thorn, her cousin, and Louis
Schufeldt, the chauffeur, from serious injury, perhaps death.

As it was, Mrs. Levey, who recently divorced George Cohan, the actor-playwright, and was then reported engaged to Robert Edeson, is under medical care at her apartments at the Sonoma at 1730 Broadway, suffering from painful hurts. Her cousin is in a state of nervous collapse. Mr.
Higgins and his chauffeur escaped with bruises.

with stealing $250 from Charles Hardins' cash register on July 3, was fined $20 by the same judge.

A peddler, a stranger here, was fined $10 and given a stay to leave town.

Dobel's hall tonight, the proceeds to

GOES TO THE "HARTFORD"

H. Looney Takes Position With Well Known Fire Insurance Co.

J. H. Looney, of the insurance firm of Moriwether & Looney, has retired from that firm to take the position of special agent for the Hartford Fire Insurance Co., of Hartford, Conn.

Missouri will be his territory, and his headquarters will be in Sedalia.
Mr. Looney will be associated with Mr. Mack D. Looney, who has been in charge of the state of Missouri for the Hartford company for several years, who also makes his headquarters in the Queen City.

The Hartford Fire Insurance company has been represented in Sedalia ever since the Missouri Pacific railroad was built and has a large patronage locally. The company has total assets of nearly twenty million dollars and paid out over seven millions, "dollar for dollar," in the San Francisco conflagration.

M. D. and J. H. Looney are sons of the late J. H. Looney, sr., who was engaged for a life time in the insurance business, and for ten years was manager of the Sedalia Board of Underwriters, which covered Sedalia
and about twenty adjacent towns.
The Hartford has for several years
been represented locally by Wm. H.
Van Wagner.

Mr. J. H. Looney's predecessor had his headquarters in Kansas City, but on account of his preference to Sedalia Mr. Looney had the offices transferred here.

The offices of the state agent, special agent and local agent of the Hartford are now in Sedalia, which shows that the Hartford knows a good town when they see it.
